Infant Abandoned By Riksha Occupant Is Assured Of Home

A Chinese girl infant whose parents have apparently abandoned her will have a comfortable home if the efforts of Interpreter Wang Man-tung, of Louisa police station, are successful.

The youngster was brought to the Wing On store a few days ago by riksha. The man carrying the tiny bundle on his back, from which the child was being held, asked the riksha coolie to hold it for a few minutes while he could go inside the store and make a purchase. The coolie waited for over an hour and as his fare failed to reappear, took the child to the police station. The interpreter, in making an application to the Mixed Court yesterday for leave to adopt the baby, stated that he had secured a nurse for it and that he and his wife would give it every care.

The court ordered that notifications be published in the local press for a two weeks' period and if the child is not reclaimed in that time the application for adoption will be heard.

MOTOR CAR MEN ORGANISE WITH BURKILL LEADER

The Automobile Show Executive Committee held a meeting at the office of Chairman C. R. Burkill, in the new N. K. K. building, last evening, to close up the show accounts. Chairman White, of the building committee, was unable to attend the meeting because of illness, and on account of his absence no action was taken. The committee will meet again on January 5, at which time it is planned to wind up the business of the show. It was also decided to have a banquet in the near future, the date for this to be fixed by the Chairman.

At last night's meeting there was an informal discussion of the plan to organize a permanent automotive association in Shanghai, and as it was the unanimous opinion of the committeemen that Chairman Burkill, of the show committee, was the ideal man to head this organization he was asked, in a resolution presented by Mr. Honigsberg and seconded by Mr. Chandler, to take over the leadership of the association. This he consented to do. The new organization will be formally launched at the next meeting of the committee.

Joseph J. Keegan, Honorary Secretary of the Show committee, and present Chairman of the Garage Owners' organization committee, in a graceful address complimented the committee upon the acquisition of Mr. Burkill as leader, and announced that he would assist the new Chairman in carrying on the organization work.

FIRE AT SOCONY POOTUNG PLANT BURNS FOR HOURS

Fire of serious proportions broke out last night at the Standard Oil Company's Pootung plant, sweeping through the firm's big lamp goods godown and causing much damage, the full extent of which it was impossible to estimate up to the time of going to press.

The blaze started at about 8:45 p.m. and it was fully four hours before it was brought completely under control. The fact that the tide was out at the time hampered the work of checking the flames and rendered the giving of assistance by the Shanghai Fire Department difficult.

Chief M. W. Pett and several of his assistants, nevertheless, took a launch and were early on the scene, as was also the fire boat, giving what aid was possible.

Parliament Meets To Ratify Irish Agreement; Commons Congratulates King George

King's Speech Brief, Tells Of Heartfelt Joy At End Of Negotiation And The Settlement

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 14.—Intense interest was evinced in the state opening by the King of the shortest and one of the most momentous sessions of Parliament in British history. Crowds collected along the route which was lined by troops and cheered their Majesties and Princess Mary as they drove in the State Coach to the Houses of Parliament. There was an unexampled array of peers and peeresses whose sparkling coronets and jewels made a magnificent scene in the House of Lords.

The brevity of the King's speech surprised everyone. The House of Commons was crowded when it re-assembled in the afternoon and the Prime Minister was loudly cheered on his entry.

Colonel Samuel Hoare moved an address in the customary form, with addendum stating that the House of Commons, having considered the Irish agreement, was ready to ratify it and congratulating His Majesty on the near accomplishment of the work of reconciliation to which His Majesty had so largely contributed.

Mr. Barnes (Labor) seconded, after which the Ulster member, Mr. McNeill unexpectedly suggested the adjournment of the House until they knew whether the Dail Eireann had accepted the agreement. The Speaker replied that Parliament was independent of any outside decision.

Mr. Lloyd George, who was loudly cheered, said that the Irish agreement was received with delight and hope throughout the civilized world. It has been criticized in some quarters as a humiliation for Great Britain and the Empire, but the Dominions, all of which acclaimed the agreement, were not in the habit of rejoicing over the humiliation of the Empire for which they had sacrificed so much.

Referring to the negotiations the Prime Minister said that it was becoming manifest that in Ireland there were men on the other side who took risks in fighting in order to make peace between the two great races.

DANGEROUS TO DEFINE
Referring to the proposed Dominion status of Ireland, he said it was difficult and dangerous to attempt to define such, but Ireland's guarantee in the exercise thereof lay in the fact that other dominions would feel their own position jeopardized if an attempt were made to encroach on Ireland's rights. He emphasized that there had been complete acceptance of allegiance to the Crown and of membership in the Empire.

With regard to the limitation of Ireland's forces, he mentioned the danger otherwise of the creation of two rival armies in Ireland and of a possible conflict with Ulster.

Replying to an enquiry as to how he proposed to enforce this provision, Mr. Lloyd George said that if the Treaty were broken, the Empire would be quite capable of dealing with the situation as she had before dealt with breaches of treaties by far more formidable Powers. With regard to naval safeguards he explained the necessity of securing unquestioned free access to Irish ports in time of need.

Referring to the clause empowering Ireland to impose tariffs on British goods, the Prime Minister said the safeguard lay in the fact that Ireland was much more dependent on Britain than Britain was on her. Mr. Lloyd George announced that an act of indemnity would be introduced.

ADDRESS OF KING

London, Dec. 14.—The King's speech on the opening of Parliament says that he summoned Parliament in order that the Irish agreement might be immediately submitted for their approval. There would be no other business during the present session.

His Majesty declared that he had learned with heartfelt joy of the agreement, reached after negotiations had been protracted for many months affecting the welfare not only of Ireland but of the British and Irish races throughout the world.

He expressed the earnest hope that the agreement would end the strife of centuries and that Ireland as a free partner of the commonwealth of nations would form the British Empire would se-

DAIL EIREANN OPENS

London, Dec. 14.—The Dail Eireann opened publicly at Dublin today and discussed details leading up to the appointment of plenipotentiaries and their powers. Eventually the motion of Mr. de Valera was adopted in spite of the opposition of Mr. Collins, that the Dail should meet privately this afternoon, and that tomorrow's proceedings when the ratification or rejection of the Irish agreement will be considered, should be public.

CHANG TSO-LIN AFTER BANK; NEGOTIATING NEW CABINET

Premier Probably Will Be Dropped; Wu And Tsao Are Agreed

(Special To The China Press)

Peking, Dec. 15.—Chang Tso-lin is negotiating a coalition cabinet with the Communication clique, one of his conditions being the control of the Bank of Communications. President Hsu is hardly in accord with the Mukden Warlord's ambitions, but it is not believed he can hold out against him.

Whether or not Premier Chin Yun-peng will have a place in the reorganized government is a question, his failure to receive an invitation to return from Tientsin with Chang Tso-lin, where he had gone to meet him, casts doubts on his continuance in official life.

Wu Pei-fu and Tsao Kun are understood to be following a "stand pat" policy in pursuance of a recent understanding with Chang Tso-lin that they would give Chang a free hand in reorganizing the government.

(Dah Tong News Agency)

Peking, Dec. 15.—Chang Tso-lin arrived in the Capital at noon yesterday. It has been decided that the Cabinet shall be reformed—but the old Chiao Tung party has decided not to form a Cabinet at the present time. Wang Nai-ping will act as head of the Cabinet pro-tem.

Chang Chi-tan, Minister of Communications, is preparing his resignation, and the rumors are that Chang Hu will be appointed. It is not thought that the appointment will be made, since as soon as the old Chiao Tung party takes over power, Yeh Kung-cho will be reappointed. Hsu Shu-chang, the vice-minister, will probably act for the time being.

Chang Tso-lin has made arrangements for the support of the Bank of Communications and will shortly have another $4,000,000 remitted to Peking.

Tsao Kun has telegraphed to Wu Pei-fu asking him to come to Peking. He is pretending that he is sick at present but in reality he is awaiting Wu's arrival.

Mr. Edward I. Ezra Dead

MR. EDWARD ISAAC EZRA

Prominent And Wealthy Shanghai Man Stricken At Desk, Passes Away Without Regaining Consciousness; Funeral Today

Mr. Edward Isaac Ezra, for many years one of the leading figures in the business, official and philanthropic fields of endeavor in Shanghai, died suddenly yesterday afternoon following an apoplectic stroke.

The seizure came at about 12:30 o'clock, while Mr. Ezra was seated at his desk in the offices of the Shanghai Gas Company, which he had just acquired interest in, and only yesterday had been working on the plans for a new and up-to-date garage and salesrooms for this concern, which takes in, as well as its local scope, business formerly owned in Peking and Tientsin by Andersen, Meyer and Company.

He was chairman of the Far Eastern Insurance Company, chairman of the Shanghai Gas Company and a director of many other companies, including the Yangtze hostelry on the most modern lines to be established here. He was also actively interested in the management of the China Motors, Ltd., a recently acquired interest, and only yesterday had been working on the plans for a new and up-to-date garage and salesrooms for this concern, which takes in, as well as its local scope, business formerly owned in Peking and Tientsin by Andersen, Meyer and Company.

He was chairman of the Far Eastern Insurance Company, chairman of the Shanghai Gas Company and a director of many other companies, including the Yangtze

Word of Mr. Ezra's death was received with a shock of profound regret throughout the community yesterday and in particular was the blow felt by the local Jewish community, in which he had ever been an indefatigable worker for advancement in all progressive lines and to which he had dedicated a great deal of his time and substance in the furtherance of charitable works.

His wide circle of business associates and acquaintances expressed likewise a deep sense of loss through his passing, as did also those who had been associated with him during the period of his public service for the Municipality.

IN PRIME OF LIFE

Mr. Edward I. Ezra was not quite 41 years of age, having been born in Shanghai on January 3, 1881. He was educated in the Shanghai Public School, receiving much of his early training under the supervision of Mr. George Lanning. He entered business here at an early age in the firm established by his father, that of Isaac Ezra and Company, which engaged in the importing and exporting trade. At the death of his father Mr. Edward Ezra carried on the business and some ten years ago organized and established his own business firm—Edward Ezra and Company.

A man of singular business acumen and organizing ability he soon built up a fortune, becoming the holder of extensive properties and commanding interests in a number of important financial enterprises. He held directorships in many Shanghai companies and his keen sense of potential values and his administrative talents were his guiding influence in a number of highly successful commercial achievements.

BUSINESS INTERESTS WIDE

He was managing director of the Shanghai Hotels Company, owners of the Astor House, Kalee and Palace Hotels in Shanghai, the Wagon Lits in Peking and the Terminus in Hankow, and at the time of his death he had under consideration the plans for a huge

JAPAN WOULD SELL THE RAILWAY TO CHINA BUT HOLD CONTROL A WHILE

China Scouts Offer Of Shantung Line At Price Of $30,000,000 Saying Japan Has Had It Six Years And Its Last Year's Earnings Were 16 Million—Wants 21 Demands Abrogated

MUTSU TO BE HELD IN JAPAN'S NAVY

America Will Keep Two New First Line Ships Instead Of Older Ones—British Part In New Alignment Not Yet Decided By Admiralty

Work of the Disarmament Conference now centers chiefly on China with the Shantung Railway occupying the center of the stage. Japan has offered to sell it to China for $30,000,000, but would hold the control for years after the sale.

China vehemently rejects this, saying that the railway earned $16,000,000 last year. She also is seeking to force consideration of the 21 Demands.

As for the Navy Ratios, Japan will get the Mutsu instead of the Settsu, while the United States will retain the Colorado and Washington, two new ships instead of two older ones to be scrapped.

WANTS $30,000,000

(Special To The China Press)
Washington, Dec. 14.—The Japanese are demanding the payment of Mex. $30,000,000 for their share of the Shantung Railway and the Chinese delegates, who are taking part in the Shantung negotiations despite their resignations, have flatly refused. They argue that Japan has paid practically nothing for the railway as it made a profit of Yen 16,000,000 last year, the sixth year of its operation by the Japanese Government.

Salt fields of Tsingtao are being discussed. The Japanese demand free export of salt to Japan. The Chinese delegates are opposing this.

WOULD SELL BUT HOLD
(Reuter's Service)
Tokio, Dec. 15.—Japan has already consented to the proposal of the purchase by China of the Kiaochow-Tsinanfu railroad and has already instructed her delegation to that effect, according to an authoritative statement to Reuter's correspondent.

The method of purchase is now under close consideration. Two or three plans have been drafted. Japan, it is stated, hopes in principle to reserve her rights to the railroad for a period of years after the purchase contract has been concluded.

Japan does not intend to abandon her rights by receiving full payment from China. The purchase contract will therefore probably be made in the form of a loan redeemable by yearly instalments.

21 DEMANDS NOW UP

(Reuter's Service)
Washington, Dec. 15.—The Chinese delegation has requested the abrogation of the famous Sino-Japanese Twenty One Demands Treaty of 1915 and of all treaties granting special spheres of influence in China.

OBJECT TO SPHERES

Washington, Dec. 14.—At the meeting of the Far Eastern Committee today the Chinese delegates presented a detailed statement regarding the special spheres of interest to which China particularly objects. The Japanese requested time to study the question before discussing it.

The Japanese have telegraphed to Tokio China's counter-proposal for the purchase of the Kiaochow-Tsinanfu Railway. A couple of days' delay in the conclusion of the Sino-Japanese negotiations is therefore expected. The Chinese reported that they were ready to pay in bonds, but the Japanese desire further security.

It is noteworthy that the Sino-Japanese negotiations were conducted entirely in the English language in the presence of the British and American representatives.

KOREA WANTS FREEDOM

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Korea should be restored to its former status of complete independence from Japan to prevent its being used as the bridge for Japanese expansion into Asia, declared Dr. Henry Chung, secretary of the Korean mission, seeking recognition at the Washington armament conference, on his arrival here today from Honolulu.

Dr. Chung, who said he formerly published a newspaper in Korea, the Independent News, until its suppression by the Japanese, was elected a vice-president of the World's Press Congress at Honolulu.

"The pretenses that Japan needs Korea for self-defense or colonization are equally flimsy," he said. "The only nation that has a direct interest in that part of the Far East is the United States. As for colonization, Japan Proper has room for ten million more people."

SHANTUNG STILL SIMMERS
Washington, Dec. 15.—The following communique is issued today: The Chinese and Japanese delegates continued the discussion of the Tsingtao-Tsinan Railway and approached an understanding on several features of the question.

TWO SHIPS VS. MUTSU
Washington, Dec. 14.—It is understood that the American delegates have agreed to the Japanese reservation regarding the retention of the Mutsu instead of the old twelve inch gun ship. Settlement on condition that the United States is permitted to retain two newer ships, the Colorado and the Delaware, instead of the Delaware and the North Dakota. Great Britain's counter-modifications remain to be arranged.

The naval limitation program will provide a status quo regarding Pacific fortifications agreement and will not apply to Hawaii, Japan, Australia or New Zealand.

"IF YOU SIGN, YOU DIE"
(Special To The China Press)

Nanchang, Dec. 10.—At a monster demonstration and meeting yesterday practically all the students of Nanchang together with other organizations declared in no unambiguous terms, their attitude toward the negotiations now going on at the Pacific Conference. At the close of a parade which filled the streets for hours, delegates framed the following cablegram, dispatched to Washington late last night:

"People's meeting and demonstration demand unconditional return of Tientsin. Reject twenty one demands. Take up with conference immediately and ask their just consideration. If three Chinese delegates sign treaty against will of people they will be rejected and not allowed to return to China alive."

U.S. ACT GRIEVES CHINA
(Special To The China Press)

Peking, Dec. 15.—That America will be handicapped in the future as an unbiased friend of China because of her entrance into the four-power agreement is the first reaction of Peking official circles toward the agreement.

Although China is undoubtedly glad to see the passing of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, most Chinese here view with apprehension the new entente formed to deal with Pacific problems, since China, one of the most important of the Pacific powers, has been excluded.

In addition to the slight which, it is felt, has been put on the nation, the Chinese fear that the United States may be influenced by its new allies rather than actuated solely by motives of seeking China's good.

JAPAN NOT SATISFIED
(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Dec. 15.—The Jiji, the Asahi, and the Nichi Nichi publish their own Washington special telegrams, reporting the revival of the Mutsu. With regard to the report, however, that because the Mutsu is to be retained by Japan, the United States is to keep the Colorado, the Jiji, in an editorial today, writes as follows:

"The reason of Japan contending for the maintenance of the Mutsu is based on the fact that the ship is already completed. It is absurd and unwarranted that while the United States retains the Maryland, which was completed about the same time as the Mutsu, she attempted to cause the Mutsu to be scrapped."

"This is a question not of principle but of fact. That the Colorado, which is to be completed in May of next year, should be exchanged for the Mutsu, which is already completed, is quite incompatible with Mr. Hughes' four fundamental principles of naval proposals. It is, therefore, too premature to believe the report that the Mutsu is to be exchanged for the Colorado."

Disinfection Ordered On States Shipments

By reason of the small pox epidemic in Shanghai, the following notice has been issued by the American consulate under authority of the state department at Washington.

"On account of the small pox epidemic in Shanghai, all shipments are notified that such merchandise or goods as household effects, upholstered effects, second hand clothing, etc., must be disinfected before shipment. Consular invoice will not be certified until the above has been complied with."

N. KIANGSU FOLK FACING DEATH FROM FAMINE

(China Press Correspondence)

Haichow, Dec. 7.—Having made a recent trek to the South Eastern part of North Kiangsu, your correspondent is able to make an authentic report on conditions in that part of the Province. During the Summer a great part of the country was flooded for a protracted period, especially that which was adjacent to the various tidal streams. Peasants, potatoes and cotton are the principal crops, and while not a total loss, the harvest was very poor last fall, and the people are now living on what we call potato roots, food considered fit only for animals.

Although the water subsided in time to plant the fall wheat, there will be much suffering and doubtless many will starve. Yet we cannot call it a famine.

In October there was so much water in the salt canal, and such a heavy current that small boats did not dare to make the trip to Taingkiangpu. Now, two months later, the smallest boat cannot make a through trip, because there is no water in the canal.

Many and various foreigners connected with the building of the Harbor and Railroad come to and go, and each gives his opinion as to when the road will arrive at Haichow, none of which are authentic. Mayor Brooks of the British army has just made us a short visit, coming overland from Haichowfu. He reports that the road bed is laid to Suntsien and work trains are running about 35 miles Southeast from Haichowfu. This is thought to be a trustworthy report.

Looking forward to future missionary work when the harbor and railway were finished the members of the Presbyterian Mission purchased a small piece of land near the probable location of the harbor. From the latest survey for the railroad it now appears that the right of way will just take up the purchased ground. What the results will be to the mission's pocket book remains to be seen.

Ten Thousand Students Voice Protest In Parade

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Dec. 2.—Ten thousand students representing thirty Peking educational institutions gathered outside the Tien An Men at half past two this afternoon to parade the city as a demonstration against the opening of direct negotiations at Washington and in support of the claims that China wishes to lay before the Washington Conference.

The procession which was made up of students from Government schools, missionary schools, girls' schools and Tainghua College, was headed by two representatives from each of the 30 parading institutions. Delegates from the girls' school were in the vanguard. Boy Scouts, in uniform, from Tainghua and various Peking institutions followed the parade and kept it in formation.

Leaving Tien An Men the students marched through Chien Men to Tu Mao-chang and thence eastward to Hailamen Street. Reaching the Hailamen at shortly after four o'clock, the procession made its way northward to Walchiapou Street, with dense crowds lining the sidewalk and cheering the parade.

URGENT WITHDRAWAL

Each school or college had its banner and cheer-leader, and various banners and streamers indicated the student policy towards the Washington Conference. The largest of these was a huge pennant bearing the inscription: "Withdraw from the Conference rather than negotiate directly with Japan." Student distributors strewed pamphlets and leaflets by the thousands along the pathway of the parade.

It was shortly after five when the head of the procession reached the gates of the Walchiapou, where the students came to a halt. Eight students, especially selected by the Peking Students' Union and headed by He Yu-hai, the Chairman of the Union and a Student at the Law College, then entered the Walchiapou grounds and presented the views of the student body to Foreign Minister Yen and other officials of the Walchiapou.

AGAINST DIRECT PARLEY

The students said that there should be no direct negotiations with Japan at Washington for the restoration of Shantung. They requested that the Shantung issue be laid before the Conference as a whole for settlement. And among their other demands they urged that the Government stand behind the people in insisting that China's rights be upheld to the last at Washington and that the Chinese delegation be instructed to make good the just claims of the Chinese Government and people.

Dr. Yen, replying to the students, said that the Government and the delegation at Washington had the best interests of the country at heart and that the students could rest assured that everything possible would be done to get from the Powers recognition of China's aims and a working-out of the principles laid down, or to be laid down, by the Conference with regard to Chinese questions.

One Year From Now

It will cost you a little more than it would today to have your life insured. If you delay three, five or ten years, it will cost you considerably more. Yet the protection that you can obtain today at the lower rate is the same that you would pay more for later on.

Also, three or five years from now it may be too late. Sickness or accident may deprive your family of the valuable benefits of life insurance unless YOU take the initiative NOW. The responsibility rests with you.

We shall be pleased to advise with you at any time regarding the kind of policy best suited to your age and requirements. A request by telephone or mail will bring you full information.

1318 Was Lucky Number For Poplarboro's Purses

"New York Wizard of Finance to Invest Here."

HE LURES CROWDS

There was some more correspondence with B. Julius Fenwick, in which the Chamber of Commerce tried not to appear too elated, and then a date was set for the great man's visit. We had planned a big public reception at the station, but the new bank clerk, who seemed to know something about his habits, told us that Mr. Fenwick was a quiet man who especially detested crowds. I was thereupon appointed by the president of the chamber to meet him at the train, escort him to the best suite at the hotel, and then bring him on for an informal reception at the club.

From the first I was dubious about that club reception. Of course, Poplarboro is a highly progressive city, but even I, a member of the City Council, must admit that our club was not much like the club interiors shown in the best up-to-date films. The rooms didn't amount to much in the first place, and then there was always the possibility that the visitor would come upon old Mr. Atterbury, of Atterbury's Boots and Shoes, drinking his afternoon coffee out of the saucer. Worst of all, Doc Evans, who has a strong bent for amateur philanthropy, had put the rooms in charge of a shuffling individual who had the manners of an East Side bartender and a record of a term served for burglary in the State Pen.

EX-CON, NOT HANDSOME

Doc claimed that the man was anxious to reform and would go straight if given a chance. In fact, he was a hard worker and seemed very anxious to please, but his dirty white apron, his way of mopping up tables, and above all, his manner of leaning on the bar in his shirt-sleeves and joining in the conversation made him seem a long way from the impressive dunky to which B. Julius Fenwick was accustomed. As there was no possibility of getting anyone better in such a short time, we could only hope that he would be sufficiently abashed by the financier to keep himself in his place.

It was five minutes after B. Julius Fenwick arrived that I first ran counter to his pet superstition. I had met him at the station according to schedule and found him to be a tall, pale, lean man, with a manner of combined geniality and restraint. As I led him over to the taxi I had been obliged to hire on account of the car breaking down, he talked on steadily of the great possibilities of Poplarboro. Then suddenly the conversation stopped as quickly as that of a lady in a theater when she overhears somebody in the next row telling a scandal about a person she knows.

NUMBER SHOCKS HIM

When I stepped back to find out what caused this sudden vocal eclipse I found B. Julius Fenwick staring at the license number and wiping perspiration in his forehead with agitated hands. The police I had noted was as absent as the snows of yesterday.

"I—er don't like that number," he mumbled in explanation pointing to 1318 on the license plate. "Superstitious about thirteen."

Though surprised to find a hard-headed New York business man so overcome by a figure on a motor-car, I was glad in a way that he had such a human weakness. Fortunately another taxi-cab was waiting, so his bags were piled in and we started for the hotel. On the way he got hold of himself again and talked more enthusiastically than before about Poplarboro and his pleasure in entering into financial relations with its leading citizens.

NUMBER 1318 AGAIN
The next glimpse I had of the power of his pet superstition occurred after we reached the hotel. On the way to his suite, I spoke of the young man who recently joined the staff of the State Bank here and had known Mr. Fenwick in New York.

"Yes," said Mr. Fenwick thoughtfully, "He's a very fine young man. I also knew his family. I should like to call him up."

"You can get him at Central 1318," I remarked, before I thought.

Never did I see such a rapid transformation in anyone as took place in B. Julius Fenwick. His first look of fluttered agitation gave place to a hardening of his mouth and a narrowing of his eyelids.

"Is this a put-up job?" he demanded in a voice that somehow didn't belong at all with his normal personality.

The only way I could calm him down was by opening the telephone book and showing him that Central 1318 really was the number of the State Bank. When this was proved, he quieted so suddenly that he looked rather sheepish.

RAILS AT FAHING

"Confounded superstition," he apologized, shaking hands with me again. "More annoying than rheumatism."

On the way to the club, the conversation of B. Julius Fenwick seemed a trifle disjointed, and my own mind was taken up with wishing that there was a Wall Street Who's Who which set forth the superlatives of New York financiers. Had I, by my unconscious blundering, alienated the first outside financial expert to take an interest in Poplarboro's future—the man who was going to teach us how to invest our own capital and how to draw capital from other cities? I could only hope that nothing would go wrong at the club.

When we entered, we found the stains on the wall covered with flags and the room crowded with members of the local Chamber of Commerce. Our philanthropic experiment, stiff in a clean white apron, was engaged in his favorite indoor sport of mopping up a table. Before even the President of the Chamber of Commerce had a chance to present B. Julius Fenwick with the greetings of Poplarboro, our waiter looked at the guest, dropped his towel, and shambled up with wrinkles of geniality radiating to his ears.

"Why, hello, Number 1318!" exclaimed Doc Evans' ex-burglar, heartily.

Mr. Edward I. Ezra Dies After Apoplectic Stroke

Insurance Company, the Anglo-Java Estates, Laou Kung Mow, the China Press, Inc., and others.

WAS LONG COUNCILLOR

As a public servant Mr. Ezra leaves an honorable record of constructive endeavor extending over his seven years as a member of the Municipal Council. He was elected to the Municipal body in 1912 and during that year acted as chairman of the Financial Committee and chairman of the Chinese Educational Committee. He was for four years chairman of the Works Committee, bringing to the task assigned him an intimate knowledge of works matters and an experience which proved of great value to the community in the handling of this department. His deep interest in Chinese education was also of great advantage and value to the Council and the community and his services throughout his term as a Councillor were heartily appreciated by his fellow members on the Council, who warmly expressed their sentiments on the occasion of his retirement in 1919.

Following his retirement from the Council, at the ratepayers' meeting in 1920, Mr. Ezra was elected a member of the Permanent Education Committee and bent an active interest upon its workings up to the time of his death.

WAS PROMINENT MASON

Mr. Ezra was prominent in Masonic life, being a 32nd degree member of the order, a Shriner and identified with various branches of Masonic work. He was the first initiate in Lodge Baitoun, 936, S. C., and was P. Z. Rising Sun, R. A. Chapter, S. C., and P. M., Orient Mark Lodge.

Mr. Ezra's death will be felt with particular poignancy by members of the Shanghai Jewish community. Ever keenly alive to everything affecting its members he was identified with practically every movement instituted in its behalf and interested himself especially with the affairs of the Shanghai Jewish Communal Association, the Shanghai Jewish School, the Synagogue, and various other Jewish activities and philanthropic undertakings. It was chiefly through his efforts that Rabbi Hirsch was brought to Shanghai to organize and build up the synagogue and unite the community and his purse was ever open in aid of the various funds for Jewish relief and educational work. It is said of him that no one ever called upon him in vain for assistance in a worthy cause and that his private charities were of an extent which even his closest associates, though realizing them to be large, could not estimate.

CHARITIES WERE LARGE

During the world conflict Mr. Ezra gave largely to war charities and during the visit here two years ago of the envoy for the Palestine movement he made a handsome donation toward that cause. A part of the time spent on his recent trip to America was devoted to the study of Jewish communal life there with the idea of applying the best of the community systems to the Shanghai colony.

Mr. Ezra is survived by his widow and two young sons, Cecil and Denzil, all of whom are in Shanghai. He leaves also three brothers, Ellis, Isaac and Judah, and four sisters, Misses F. and S. Ezra, Mrs. N. F. Levy and Mrs. E. R. Sassoon.

Funeral services will be held at 12:15 p.m. today at the Jewish Cemetery, on Baikal Road. While it will not be a Masonic service, all Shriners and brother Masons have been asked to attend.

LARCENY CHARGES AGAINST TILLSON ARE DISMISSED

Charges brought by Col. J. F. Quinn, present manager for Montgomery, Ward and Company in Shanghai, against Frederick Tillson, former manager for the firm, were dismissed yesterday morning by Magistrate King in the British court.

Col. Quinn had alleged that Tillson had converted to his own use, a number of stores belonging to the company. The magistrate ruled that he could not frame a charge against Tillson, because, on the testimony, the goods which Tillson was accused of hypothecating with the Belgian Bank for a personal loan, were in the possession of the company of which he was manager.

"What charge do you want me to frame?" asked Magistrate King.

"Of fraudulently using the property of Montgomery, Ward and Company and pledging it for a personal loan," Col. Quinn replied.

Magistrate: Under what statute? It does not come under the Larceny Act.

Quinn: Tillson secured the loan by giving our property as security.

Magistrate: But you have the property?

Quinn: We have physical possession.

Magistrate: That is a matter for the Belgian Bank. Tillson does not seem to have committed the offence against Montgomery, Ward and Company. It is a matter for civil action. Tillson has not behaved in such a way as to Company and pledging it for a possession of Montgomery, Ward and Company.

Quinn: I have another witness who will say that Tillson, when he turned over the property to the Belgian Bank represented it as his own.

Magistrate: The definition of larceny is quite clear. It is larceny when a steals B's property and A cannot recover it.

Magistrate King, after further arguments, said that he had gone into the case carefully. It would seem from the evidence before him that on May 9, 1921, Montgomery, Ward and Company or Tillson, in his account, pledged goods belonging to Montgomery, Ward and Company to the Belgian Bank, and on November 18 he signed a delivery order for these.

The offence that Tillson was accused of was larceny, of fraudulently converting to his own use certain property of Montgomery, Ward and Company. Under the larceny act he had to put the property out of the possession of Montgomery, Ward and Company and to be guilty of the offence. As the property was still there, Tillson did not commit the offence. Therefore he could not charge him and dismissed the complaint.

Ricsha Coolie Killed By Motor Car Driven By Foreign Broker

An inquest was held yesterday over the body of a ricsha coolie run down and killed on Chungking Road by a motor car driven by Mr. H. Herlofson, broker, shortly after midnight of the same day.

Mr. Herlofson, at the inquest, testified that he had not seen the coolie, who was stooping down lighting his lamp, and that he had averted to the side of the road to avoid striking another ricsha. He was travelling about 15 miles an hour, he said, the road was somewhat slippery and there was a light fog. He expressed a willingness to do anything he could for the relatives of the deceased.

Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Yui pointed out that the most serious point in the affair was that the car had been on the wrong side of the road, which warranted a police prosecution, since such accidents were becoming very frequent. The verdict returned was to the effect that deceased was killed by being driven over by a motor car, the driver of the car being Mr. Herlofson, a Norwegian subject.

An appreciative doctor wrote:—

"Lady—was placed under my care for the voyage home. I could not accept any responsibility as I considered she was in great danger from haemorrhage should she vomit. She had always been a very bad sailor. As a precaution she was given two capsules of 'KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE' immediately she went on board. We got into rough water shortly before midnight, but Lady—had an undisturbed night's rest. She took one capsule half-an-hour before dressing. She had breakfast in the dining hall, and assured me she had no sensation of nausea or sickness. Although we had rough weather for five days, and at other periods of the voyage, she was not sea-sick. There was no nausea of any kind, and the remedy produced no after-effects."

Intercollegiate Soccer

The East China Intercollegiate Association football tournament will enter its semi final round tomorrow, when the four leading elevens in the schedule will meet in what may be the deciding games of the series.

St. John's University eleven, rated in the early stages of the play as the most likely contender for the final honors, is booked to play the Nanyang university team, which also has been classed at the top of the league.

The latter team has not yet lost a match in the tournament, while the former, after winning over Nanking, Soochow and the National South Eastern University went down to defeat a week ago to the Shanghai Baptist college at a score of 0-3.

Another important match in the schedule is that scheduled between the Shanghai College and Soochow University. Shanghai is visiting Soochow today, with their 'varsity eleven primed for the big game, and their Middle School eleven prepared to play the Yates Academy tomorrow and on Sunday the Soochow Middle School eleven.

The Soochow team is rated as exceptionally strong this year in spite of its 2-1 defeat by St. John's, and their press agents are promising great things for the Shanghai Baptists. The latter team is one of the surprises of the season. They have won over the Hangchow Christian College, the National South Eastern University, and St. John's, without being scored against and have a technical win over Nanking due to the latter's default.

The winners of these two games will probably play off in the final.

NANKING BEATS FUHTAN (Special To The China Press)

Nanking, Dec. 15.—Nanking University's Association football eleven went through a fast and clean game with the team of the Fuhtan college today to a 2-2 draw. Fifteen hundred spectators witnessed the game.

The American Trading company easily beat the Shanghai Baptist College last night in the Foreign League Basketball game on the 7th floor, by the score of 43-20. At half time the count was 27-7. The college five led several new men in their lineup which perhaps may account for their being so decisively beaten.

Nichols scored nine baskets from the floor for the American trading company, in addition to three points on fouls converted into goals. Kleine scored four, Tinkham three, Noble two and Smith one.

For the College Hipps registered three from the floor and two fouls, Kelhofer four, and King and Anderson two each.

The game was fast and scrappy throughout.

The league game scheduled to precede the A. T. Co. College contest, between the American School and the Standard Oil was cancelled by the Socony's third default on its schedule and a scratch match between the School and a pick up five was substituted which resulted in a win for the school at 51-4.

The score follows:
A'mn Trading, 43, S'hai College 20.

Goals from floor A. T. Co. Kleine LF 4, Noble LF 2, Nichols RF and Center 0, Tinkham LG and Center 3, Nelson, Young LG 0, Smith RG 1.

A'mn School Meets Lightweight S'hai Eleven Tomorrow

The Shanghai American School is training for what may be its last game of American Football this year—the match on Saturday against the lightweight eleven of the Shanghai American Football Club.

The game will be played tomorrow, commencing at 3 p.m. It was hoped last night that the Polo Field could be gotten for the match. Manager Gallop of the Shanghai team was working hard for the field space and the privilege of having the ground properly marked for the game. Should the stewards of the Recreation Course however not allow the game to be played on the Polo Field, it will be moved to the field at Hongkew Park within the cinder track.

Public School versus Anderson Meyer and Company, both on the Rowing Club floor. The first game will be called at 5:30 o'clock, and the second at 6:30.

TOMORROW'S GAMES

The U. S. Navy team, represented by the cruiser Wilmington will play its third game in Shanghai tomorrow night against the Shanghai Baptist College on the College floor at Yangtzepoo. The Navy will have dinner at the college at 6:30 and commence play at 6 o'clock. The time was set back by mutual agreement because some of the College men would not be available earlier due to the intercollegiate football match at Soochow.

MILLION POODS OF TEA IS LOOT OF MERKULOFFS

(Dalla News Agency)
Harbin, Dec. 9.—Misappropriation of goods in the Vladivostok godowns by Merkulo's men has been reported many times. Quite recently goods belonging to the Chinese Eastern Railway were disposed of by them.

It has been announced that one million poods (?) of tea belonging to a British subject have fallen into the hands of Merkulo's men. On the petition of the victim, the Consular Corps has interfered and lodged a strong protest. A similar protest against the activities of Merkulo's men has been made by the Vladivostok Chamber of Commerce.

The management of the Chinese Eastern Railway has requested that payment for goods consigned to the Maritime Province be made in Harbin. This is taken to be the beginning of disagreement between the railway and Merkulo's men.

Moral Welfare League Gratified By Year's Progress

Satisfaction with the work of the past year and hopes for an even more satisfactory showing during the coming twelvemonth were expressed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Shanghai Moral Welfare League, held in Martyn's Memorial Hall, Y. M. C. A. building.

In presenting the annual report, Mrs. C. S. Remer, secretary, spoke of the Municipal program of brothel elimination, pointing out that with the recent drawing held at the Town Hall the cancellation of 40 percent of the Settlement's original list of brothel licensees would have been accomplished by March.

Mr. Rawlinson, the chairman, in an address on "The Present Situation," drew attention to the development of public opinion on the matter of brothel licensing, as indicated by the fact that more than 50 Chinese landlords had cancelled the leases given brothel keepers, on the ground that they did not want such tenants any longer. There were other evidences, he said, which indicated that the problem is becoming less acute in the Settlement. He urged the necessity of a Municipal bylaw directed toward the suppression of vice and emphasised the necessity of awakening public opinion toward that end.

Mrs. D. W. Henman, who spoke on the subject "Some Practical Aspects of the Moral Welfare Problem," also drew attention to the need for a more active public opinion. Mrs. S. H. Tsao spoke regarding the general membership campaign, by which it is hoped to greatly expand the power and usefulness of the organization.

Foresaw Drought But Not So Soon

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, Dec. 7.—Mr. Michels, the prominent Russian meteorologist, has made the following statement to a Rosta representative regarding the drought period of the coming years:

"We are at present in the so-called Bruckner drought period. The period embraces the next thirty-five years. A number of arguments led to the assumption that this period would begin in 1924 but as a result of the coincidence of the Bruckner period with a number of shorter periods, an alteration of the curve which had been foreseen has taken place.

"The coincidence of various periods presents a complicated picture and does not permit the forecast of the weather situation for each individual year, because unexpected results can occur. For this reason the drought in the current year was so dispersed territorially that in Siberia there was a good harvest and in the Volga a drought.

"In the course of last autumn the meteorological stations in Turkestan gave quite different reports about the Volga and Western Siberia from those given by Moscow.

"The Bruckner period will be subjected to variations not only in territorial respects but also in its other manifestations which are very hard to foresee. As a result of the approaching Bruckner period a recurrence of the drought of this year is expected in the course of the next thirty years.

"The Central Observatory is now busy with the investigation of the further development of the Bruckner period. By the development of agriculture, the employment of various measures for combating the drought, and the rational use of the harvest, the approaching Bruckner period can be neutralised."

Shanghai Volunteer Corps Notes

It will be noticed that reference is often made in S. V. C. notes and in unit Routine Orders to non-attendance of members at parades. There are, no doubt, frequent cases where a member is unavoidably prevented from attending; but it rarely happens on such occasions that the member takes the trouble to let his immediate superior know beforehand that he will be unable to attend. If this little amount of thoughtfulness were adhered to, there would be less soreness on the part of the officers and N. C. Os who so unselfishly make a point of attendance of every possible occasion, as they will then feel that their own thoughtfulness for others is reciprocated.

There are no more units to be tested for mobilisation, under the "Efficiency Shield" competition conditions, until the New Year. It is rather interesting to note that in all units "stood up to date, the time allowance, which is based on the location of members' residences, has invariably worked out at 65 minutes.

FIELD ARTILLERY BATTERY
The Battery N. C. O's and drivers had a mounted parade last Sunday, mustering with their ponies only in the vicinity of the Rifle Range. The purpose of the parade was to gain some knowledge of the country north of Soochow Creek—a terra incognita to most foreigners in Shanghai—and to locate, if possible, suitable aiming points for artillery practice. A cross-country course in the direction of Jessfield Railway Bridge was taken, which was reached, with a few minor casualties, at noon.

This evening there will be a Battery parade at the Drill Hall, unmounted, for gun drill and signalling practice, at which details of a scheme for next Sunday's parade will be announced. Signalling will be an essential part of this scheme, so all signallers should make a point of attending.

Bombardier Lobb passed the required examination for a commission last week and has been gazetted Second Lieutenant. He was temporarily in command of a howitzer battery in France during the war.

CHINESE COMPANY
The November Cup Competition, consisting of practices 15, 16 and 17 of the Annual Musketry Course, was held during the month, with the following results:

A1 Class won by Pte. S. S. Zee, 70 points.

A. Class won by Pte. Y. C. Yang, 65 points.
B. Class won by Pte. C. C. Liu, 54 points.

C. Class won by Cpl. F. P. Chang, 36 points.

D. Class won by Pte. T. C. Yang, 31 points.

A football team has been organised under the direction of the Company's Physical Training Committee, Sergt. C. G. Hob and Corp. H. E. Yu. Candidates L/Corp. Y. C. Wang and W. M. Tsao have been elected Captain and Vice-Captain respectively. The team will meet the Shanghai Scottish Company's team on December 18 in connection with the Corps Football Competition.

Members who are suitable morally, intellectually and physically for promotion to Lance-Corporal were asked to report for examination, and on being recommended by the Platoon Sergeants, were accepted by O. C. Those who were accepted are now put under training and on completion of their training will be examined.

The Company, under the Command of Lieut. T. A. Zee, the Acting O. C. paraded on the wharf to welcome Capt. G. Grayrigg back from leave on November 26.

Captain G. Grayrigg was one of the first officers of the company when it was established 15 years ago and it is due entirely to his untiring efforts that the company has been brought to its present state of efficiency. The company sincerely wish that Capt. Grayrigg will continue permanently to give them his beneficial help.

In accordance with the practice of former years, 100 recruits have been enrolled. These are now being scrutinised as to their suitability morally, intellectually and physically. Training will probably commence in January.

and those recruits passing the examination at the end of the course will be admitted into active membership after April 30, as vacancies occur.

N. C. O's of the Company took tiffin at Lieut. Zee's house on November 28. Afterwards the members heartily enjoyed 3 hours of outdoor games in his well-laid-out garden and the occasion concluded with afternoon tea.

SHANGHAI SCOTTISH
Members are reminded of the Night Operations which take place on Tuesday night next on the Race Course, falling in at the Golf Club at 9:15 p.m.

The Unit meets the Chinese Coy., S.V.C., in the Corps Association League on Sunday next at 3 p.m. It is hoped that arrangements can be made whereby the match will be played on the Race Course.

The particularly vivid color scheme of the jerseys of both teams, we are warned, will be a feature in itself worth watching, another instance of how Scotch will mix with anything, incidentally, if the Editor of the North China Daily News is really anxious to have a receipt for Atholl brose, we shall be only too delighted to oblige him and even go as far as throwing in a haggis!!

Instances have occurred where members are not receiving Company Routine orders. The probability is that, in a change of address, members have failed to notify their Platoon Commanders. In order to facilitate the work of the Officers and N.C.O's, all members should, from time to time, check up with their N.C.O. their addresses and telephone numbers.

TOAST

As a matter of real importance can any reader kindly inform us what it is that Chinese cooks do with toast to produce the abominable travesty of that excellent breakfast concomitant that we all know but too well?

Most of the dishes beloved of foreigners Chinese cooks (for whose genius we have the greatest admiration) can and do learn to make admirably. But toast is seemingly beyond them. It may come to table outwardly hot and crisp, but two minutes later it has changed either to something of the consistency of damp felt, or to sadament. The most careful directions may be given: hold the bread in front of the fire, do not scrape it, do not lay it down but stand it on edge, do not begin toasting it till the last minute. But all in vain. What does cook do?—From the North-China Daily News, December 5, 1921.

Electricity in the Home

Do not blame the cook. He cannot help but make unpalatable toast over the top of a coal fire. The electric toaster solves the problem. Have it on the breakfast table, cut your own bread, make your own toast. The cost of current used for an ordinary household would be less than Tls. 0.50 per month.

Call at the Municipal Electricity Showrooms and see the latest designs in toasters and all electrical appliances for the home. 26 Nanking Road. Telephone Central 283.

German Finances Now Are World's Great Question

(Special To The China Press)
Nauem, Dec. 10. — Discussions held by Minister Loucheur in many circles in London have resulted in an invitation to Premier Briand to see Mr. Lloyd George, who is convinced that the German moratorium question cannot be settled without a solution of the world's economic problems.

Lloyd George has prepared a plan which he wishes to discuss with Briand, who is expected to reach London on the 17th.

On the other hand it is rumored that the British Government is unwilling to settle the reparations question without simultaneously reaching an agreement regarding affairs in Asia Minor.

There is no doubt that although an Anglo-French agreement will be reached after some further negotiation, the existing difference in the viewpoint of the two powers regarding both questions is rather grave, the more so as the French Government will have to face a serious inner-political situation if it makes any essential concessions to Germany.

MUST SAVE EUROPE
The Times (London) states that it is not so much a question now of carrying out the exact terms of the Treaty of Versailles as of joint efforts by the Allies to save Europe from the consequences of a general financial breakdown.

The Vorwarts does not take a rosy view of the outlook, but states that Germany will be glad of any agreement that gives her a financial breathing spell, as this will be better by far than the economic and political catastrophe that would ensue if the Entente should stand pat on existing arrangements.

Dr. Sorge, speaking before the German Economic Council, pointed out today that German industry was prepared, as heretofore, to put itself at the Government's disposal for the sake of obtaining credits abroad provided that the Government was willing to guarantee the possibility of German industrial existence.

FOUNDATIONS SHAKEN
Chancellor Wirth, replying to Dr. Sorge, indicated that the Government's early efforts to secure the funds required for the January and February reparations payments resulted in the unfolding of the whole problem. He then reminded the Council that the German Government had at once declared that acceptance of the Entente's demands would shake the foundations of world economy.

The Chancellor asked the members of the Council to form no final judgment until Dr. Rathenau had returned from London and said in conclusion: "We are looking forward to the next few days with the closest attention and some hope."

LOUCHEUR PLEASED
(Special To The China Press)
Paris, Dec. 10. — M. Loucheur returned here from London last night much pleased with his brief visit to England.

He should, indeed be pleased, writes the Petit Parisien, since he gathered from his interviews with Mr. Lloyd George and Sir Robert Horne, as well as other prominent British personalities in the political and financial world, the impression that, when questions that might cause differences between France and Great Britain come up for settlement, complete and absolute agreement can be reached between the Paris and London Cabinets.

Mr. Lloyd George has manifested a strong desire to meet M. Briand as soon as possible in order to discuss with him alone those problems that require a speedy solution.

M. Loucheur has made sure that no proposals have been made to the Germans by the British Government and that no definite plans have been drawn up for a moratorium.

Mr. Lloyd George admits, according to M. Loucheur, that the Germans have not fulfilled their obligations towards France; and this is why he wants to find out, with the help of M. Briand, the best means of gratifying France's just wishes.

SEE MONEY CONTROL
(Asiatic News Agency)
Nauem, Dec. 9. — The German Press in commenting upon the proposed moratorium, anticipates a certain amount of control over Germany's national finance will be demanded by the Allies. It is reported that important financial reforms will be carried out within five years in Germany provided the moratorium be granted by the Entente regarding reparations.

The confidential reports of Herr Stinnes about his recent negotiations with Premier Lloyd George and the President of the Bank of England in London about a moratorium and the result of the special meeting of the Directors of the Reichsbank are not unfavorable for further negotiations between German and English bankers with reference to credits to be given by the latter.

NO MORATORIUM FOR GERMANY SAYS BELGIAN

(French Wireless through Reuters)

Paris, Dec. 14. — M. Theunis is forming a new Belgian Cabinet. The following statement by M. Theunis is published in the Liberte:

"I shall endeavor to obtain that the Allied negotiations in Belgium shall be as amicable as possible between the various nations, and especially so between France and Britain, the Entente between whom is one of the essential guarantees of the peace of the world."

As regards the payments by Germany, we shall admit no further delay. No moratorium will hold. Germany must carry them out."

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Jaspars, has left for Paris to meet M. Briand. The Temps understands that M. Jaspars's object is not merely discussion of the questions of reparations, which is the province of M. Theunis, but will have conversations with the French Premier on certain diplomatic questions, notably the Washington Conference, in order to maintain touch with the Allies.

Nantao Institute Issues Annual Report

We have received the annual report of the Nantao Christian Institute, a small book full of information presented in an interesting way, and containing a large number of pictures which illustrate the different types of work which are carried on by the Institute in Nantao.

The Nantao Christian Institute is the largest organization maintaining social service activities in the Chinese City. The Institute is conducted by the Presbyterian Church of Shanghai. Among its honorary directors are Dr. C. T. Wang, Dr. P. W. Kuo, Y. M. Chien of the Bank of Communications, Y. D. Kuo, manager of the Commercial Press; S. L. Yen, Koo Shing Yi and Wang H. Tai. The Nantao Institute carries on activities along lines very similar to the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The budget for the next year calls for an expenditure of over $18,000. A little more than half of this is secured by means of membership campaign, the rest through receipts from current activities, such as schools, entertainments, hostels, etc.

Vaccinates Self During Lecture To Rotary Club Men

Vaccinating himself in the course of his talk in order to drive home a point in his discourse relative to the importance of such precautionary measures, Dr. W. W. Peter yesterday addressed members of the Rotary Club on the subject of small-pox. The lecture followed the weekly talk held at the Carlton.

Dr. Peter sketched the history of vaccination from the time it was discovered by Jenner and told of the necessity for revaccination at a time like this when an epidemic is sweeping Shanghai. He urged Rotarians to see that their Chinese employees were either vaccinated or fired.

Railway Men Plan Strike; Say Salaries Long Are Overdue

(Asiatic News Agency)

Peking, Dec. 11. — Owing to the non-payment of the salaries and wages of the officials and employees of the Peking-Suiyuan Railway for the last couple of months, there was a serious conflict between the employees and Mr. Li, chief of the accountant department, yesterday morning.

The employees have petitioned the Minister of Communications against Mr. Chen, director and Mr. Li, chief accountant, demanding their immediate removal from their posts otherwise they will strike en bloc. Not only this, the employees of the Kin-sui Line threaten to invite all the employees and workmen of the Peking-Mukden and the Peking-Hankow Railways to join in their demands for the timely payment of their salaries and wages in the future.

They base their demand on the ground that the receipts of the various government-controlled lines, unless they be otherwise misappropriated by the military leaders and politicians for unproductive purposes, are sufficient for the payment of employees and workmen without difficulty. But trains on the Peking-Suiyuan Line are still running without interruption.

British Women's Association

The following ladies have joined the Association since last week: Mrs. E. Hamilton, Mrs. H. R. Hansen, Miss G. Pote Hunt, Miss J. Pote Hunt, Miss H. Kewley, Mrs. W. P. Lamb, Miss Clara Lambert, Mrs. Toeg and Mrs. A. C. White.

GARDENING SECTION
The Gardening Section expect a busy time on Tuesday. As well as plants and flowers, this stall at the Xmas Fair will provide a plentiful supply of game and poultry, fruit and vegetables, salads grown in members' gardens, to say nothing of a quantity of China Narcissus bulbs which have been especially imported from Amoy.

LITERARY SECTION
This Section has succeeded in making a most interesting fixture for January 2, when Professor Huxby, who holds the Chair for Geography in Liverpool University and is now in China with the Anglo-American Commission on Education, will address the Association on "Some Impressions of the Educational Position in China." The meeting will take the form of an 'at home' and will be held in the Carlton Cafe. Tea will be provided for members and their friends. In order to facilitate arrangements, members are asked to apply for tickets of admission—free of charge—as soon as possible to the Hon. Sec. of the Section, Mrs. Maguire, 413 Avenue Joffre.

MUSICAL SECTION
A truly delightful program has been arranged by this Section for this afternoon at Headquarters, when, assisted by Mr. Bennett, Miss Clara Richards will entertain the audience with Folk Songs of various nations. The titles of the illustrations are as follows:

Wraggle Taggle Gipsies O!
Lord Lovel.
The Sign of the Bonny Blue Bell.
Poor Old Horse.
Mowing the Barley.
Sweet Europe.
Dashing away with the Smoothing Iron.

The Twelve Days of Christmas.
"Members' friends in this Section may be introduced on payment of 50 cts. It is also announced that Professor Zalsman has kindly consented to give a recital in conjunction with the Musical Section at the Carlton Cafe on January 13 to which all members of the Association are, it is rumored, to be invited.

Further particulars will, however, be forthcoming later on.

SPORTS SECTION
New members wishing to join this Section in order to take advantage of the arrangements made for Badminton—now in full swing—should communicate with Miss Adlam, Hon. Sec. to the Section at Headquarters.

ART SECTION
Owing to a crowded week before Christmas, Dr. Stafford Cox has kindly consented to give his second lecture on "Chinese Painting" at 5 p.m.—not 5.30—on January 5. The first lecture was open to all members but subsequent lectures will be confined to members of the Art Section. Membership in this Section simply means an interest in matters artistic and all B.W.A. members are eligible for it on payment of the sectional subscription of $1.00. Those, however, who wish to take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of learning something of Chinese art and of seeing Dr. Cox' wonderful pictures are asked to pay their subscriptions in advance. The Christmas Fair Committee has accepted with much pleasure the charming design made by Miss T. Balean for the posters which will be seen on the tramcars and in the shop windows shortly after this announcement is printed. The same gifted lady has presented a design for the cover of the Gardening Section's first report. This will be on sale at the Gardening Section's stall on Tuesday.

THE CHILDREN
Generally speaking, children never cast their little shadows around the rooms of Headquarters but during the week preceding Christmas, they will be very welcome there. A vast amount of really serious shopping will be done as soon as the schools break up and tea-parties in the B.W.A. tea-rooms will be the order of the day when the excellent manageress, Mrs. Spotswood, looks forward to catering for any number of the rising generation with their mothers, governesses or nurses. Previous Intimation is not really necessary, but it certainly facilitates arrangements when large supplies are likely to be wanted. These plans do not, of course, hold good on Tuesday, when all shopping—to say nothing of tea-parties—will naturally take place at the Christmas Fair at the Town Hall.

Foreigner Charged
In Traffic Court

Mr. F. Schneider, 22D Range Road, a German, appeared in the special Traffic Court yesterday charged with dangerous driving of a motor cycle on the North Soochow Road December 2, when he struck and overturned a ricksha occupied by Mrs. Marsh. In the absence of some of the police witnesses the case was adjourned for two weeks.

There were twenty-two cases before the Traffic Court at yesterday's session, twenty-one of them involving motor vehicles. Fines ranged from $1 to $50, most of the cases being brought for minor infringements of the regulations.

Contracting Firm
Suspends Business
For General Good

Wong Ah-sz, Ta Siau-Kwei, Zee Ah-kung and Lien Koo-yuen, purloiners par excellence and men with an expansive outlook on life in its commercial aspects, were again before the Mixed Court yesterday and will not reappear there for some time.

The quartette, as chronicled a week ago, when they were charged and remanded, were accused of stealing the following—15 tons of sand, 30 tons of gravel, 30 tons of granite blocks and 25,000 tiles. The property itemised belonged to Zau Yui-chi, contractor, and was stored by him in a godown and compound at 228 North Chengtu Road.

According to the testimony of police investigators, the four defendants had organised a contractors' supply firm, unlimited and despatch from the stores of Mr. Zau, whose premises appear not to have been too carefully guarded. The new company was engaged in attending to a call

Asia Banking Corporation

December 15, 1921

Spot bar silver was up 7-8d. and forward 1d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 66 1/2 cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 419 1/4.

The only changes in the official quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 73, and a rise in the Yen rate to 65 1/2.

The market throughout the morning was steady, there being sellers of Sterling at 3-7/4 for December, 3-6 1/2 for January, and 3-5 1/2 for February.

There were Gold Dollar sellers at 75 1/2 for December, 74 1/2 for January, and 72 1/2 for February.

In the afternoon, rates eased off slightly, particularly for Sterling, there being some buyers at 8s. 7 1/2 d. for December, 8s. 6 1/2 d. for January.

The market closed about steady.

The rise in London yesterday was occasioned by buying on the part of India, and also bear covering on the part of speculators, but it is not, however, expected to be continued, and the general undertone of the silver market still remains easy.

New York report their market as closing weak yesterday, with sellers at the close at the official quotations.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the Shanghai freight market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

The situation in our outward freight market is as follows:

To United Kingdom and Continent:—The Homeward conference has reduced rates on cereals and oils by about 30 percent as from the 6th inst. and this, with a possibly weaker exchange, it is hoped may lead to an improvement in the present dull state of the export market.

To United States Overland and via Canals:—Since last writing there has been a slight movement in silk and a fair quantity of fresh eggs via the Pacific whilst there is still tea going forward via the canals but no general cargo to speak of.

Coastwise:—Outside of the regular trade routes there is practically no demand for tonnage. The Ports of Newchwang and Antung are now closed and there is no demand worth mentioning from Dally. There is no change to report from the Yangtze River Ports.

Receipts $64,269.34 $50,639.44

Loss by currency depreciation 21,393.62 14,140.11

Effective receipts $42,875.72 $36,499.33

Coal Market

In their fortnightly report on the Shanghai coal market, Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows:

Japan Coal:—Since last writing a few more of the annual contracts for next year have been settled and at the close the market is quiet; as far as the native dealers are concerned they are still rather inclined to hold off in the hope of prices being easier later on but we do not think that this will do them any good as, according to latest advices from Japan, the market over there is firm.

Fushun Coal:—No change.

Fuchang Anthracite:—No change.

Kaiping Coal:—Deliveries continue with usual regularity and any small surplus sent from the mines is absorbed without difficulty.

There has been an annual reduction in contract prices for the last 3 years and as quotations are again lower for 1922 the days of expensive coal are evidently over: This is a factor that should stimulate local production.

Edward I. Ezra

The loss that Shanghai as a city has suffered by the sudden demise of Mr. Edward I. Ezra cannot now nor perhaps ever be estimated. Born here, educated here, and with all his vast interests centered here, he loved this city and served it with an ardor far beyond the understanding of most of us who hail from other lands and who have in large part left our hearts behind us.

Edward Ezra's heart was here. Plans for a Greater Shanghai, for a better Shanghai, were ever uppermost in his energetic and far-sighted mind. And no appeal to him in this direction ever failed to win his cordial support.

In the brief two hours years of his life he had seen Shanghai grow from a fast, ruddy and dilapidated village into the magnificent city we see today and he felt that this was only the beginning, that no limit could be fixed on Shanghai's future greatness. He was a man of vision, a dreamer perhaps, but a practical one, given to making his dreams come true and if he had been spared he would have done things for Shanghai, that now we know, never will be done.

The story of his life and accomplishments is told elsewhere in this issue of THE CHINA PRESS and we need not dwell upon it here, but there was a personal side to his character as revealed to the staffs of THE CHINA PRESS and THE EVENING STAR which ought to be told here because it cannot properly be told elsewhere. This has to do with his kindness, his thoughtfulness and his consideration for the welfare of others, also his quick and generous appreciation of work well done.

When, last Spring, owing to the departure of Mr. A. J. Israel on home leave, Mr. Ezra was appointed Chairman of the Board of THE CHINA PRESS, he quickly manifested a keen interest in the well being of the staff. The staff about that time did some very notable work in reporting the Far Eastern Olympic games. Mr. Ezra promptly sent around to ascertain the wishes of the staff in the direction of a bonus. Well, the staff was tired of boarding houses and hotels. It wanted a home and wanted it nicely furnished. No suitable house was to be had but one was building. It is now completed and the staff is busy furnishing it. It will serve as a modest memorial to Edward Ezra's kindness of heart.

The motor car show came along shortly after the launching of THE EVENING STAR. It was suggested to him that a car be given away in behalf of The Star. "Give one for THE CHINA PRESS as well," he said. And when the show was over and

FICKLENESS

The flowers you were last night are thrown away—
You will not listen to the birds today,
For you, who spoke of love but yesterday,
Are fickle, and can easily forget.
The roses do not care for they are dead,
The nightingale you would not heed has fled,
And sings, perhaps, to other folks instead.
Alone, the heart you broke is grieving yet.

THE LIMIT FOR A BOLSHIE

Relief workers say that if Russia pulls through the coming winter it will be by a close shave, but it will be hard to make the world think Russia will resort to this.—Manila Bulletin.

BITS FROM BOOKS

"When Mandell Creighton was Bishop of London it fell to him to admonish an earnest High Church Vicar, working in the East End, on the subject of income. The Vicar, pleading hard for his point, appealed to his record as a parish priest. 'Dr. Creighton,' he said solemnly, 'for twenty-five years I have held here a cure of souls, and—Before he could finish the sentence, Creighton cut in with a joke. 'Cure them, certainly,' he said, 'but surely you need not smoke them?'"

MIXING 'EM!

Two men stood at a street corner watching a well-dressed foreigner go stumbling past. "That chap," observed one, "is something of a mystery. He's supposed to be French; but I'm sure there is a strain of Spanish or Italian in him—and probably a strain of English, too."
"H'm," replied his sarcastic friend. "More probably a fairly large strain of Scotch!"

GUILTY?

An officer was court-martialed for being intoxicated. The evidence for the prosecution was overwhelming. For the defense there was but one witness. The Irish batman of the accused. This faithful fellow was questioned, and answered thus:
"Do you remember the night of the tenth?"
"I do, sorr!"
"Was he intoxicated?"
"He was not, sorr!"
"Was he perfectly sober?"
"He was, sorr!"
"How did you know he was sober?"
"By the way he kept on telling me to call him early, sorr!"
Oh! He told you to call him early, did he?
"He did, sorr! He said he was to be Queen of the May!"

the staff had done another notable piece of work in reporting it, he sent around a check in four figures as a bonus to those who had done the actual work, and with it a charming little note of praise and thanks.

Appreciation such as this quickly endears an employer to his employees. He becomes more than an employer, he becomes a personal friend. Needless to say, the whole staff takes the loss of Mr. Ezra as a personal bereavement and extends to the sorrowing widow and children, brothers and sisters and other relatives and to the countless host of intimate friends, its sincere condolences.

How Alice Enjoyed Her Xmas

BY GERTRUDE STUART
(AGE 13)

Alice was a sweet little girl of eight, who always listened to what her mother had to say. Since her father's death, she had lived a very poor life with her mother in a small little house, down Range Road.

It was near Xmas and Alice had often taken a walk to see the beautiful toys that were in the shop-windows. There was a big Xmas tree lighted with candles and decorated with toys, and lots of other things. After a good look at the toys, she went home to her mother, and told her of the beautiful things she had seen.

It was Xmas Eve and Alice went to bed early as usual, and dreamed that she was giving a big party, in a grand house. In the corner of the room was a big Christmas tree illuminated with colored lights, and the children danced with joy. Santa Claus came along, and each boy and girl received a present from him. They were so happy opening their parcels to see what each had received; "and guess what Alice had got from him!" A beautiful doll, that could walk like a real person.

It was supper time and the children sat at a big table covered with delicious sweetmeats. "Bang," went a noise, while the children were having their supper. The sound came from above their heads, and down came a shower of crackers, containing sweets of all kinds. This was a surprise to the children from Alice's mother.

Once again the children danced while the grown-ups had their supper. Two by two they danced round the room and sang, Oh! such jolly songs.

It was late and the children were taken home by Mary, who was accompanied by her governess. After all the guests have gone Alice went up and had a good look at all her presents, and then went to bed quietly, but she did not forget to bring her doll to bed with her.

The next morning was Xmas morning, and she went out visiting her aunts and uncles and came back with more presents. In the evening she went to a Xmas party and enjoyed herself. This was the end of her dream.

Xmas morning she woke up late, contented with her dream. She ran off to her mother who was making a fire in the kitchen, and told her of her dream. After she told her mother everything, she went back to her room, and to her surprise, there was a big box at the foot of her bed. She went immediately and opened it, and there was that beautiful doll she had dreamed of the night before.

"Mother—mother," she cried in a surprising voice, "look at this beautiful doll! Santa Claus has given me. When I awoke there was no doll at all, but after telling you my dream I went back to my room and there was the doll in a box."

"That shows that you have been a good girl all through the year," replied her mother, "Santa Claus loves good boys and girls; and he gives toys, sweets, fruits and many other beautiful things to the good children he loves."

Alice went back to her room once again, and wrapping a scarf round her neck, took her doll in her arms, and went off to show her friends the beautiful present she had received.

"What did you get from Santa Claus?" she asked one of her friends.

"Nothing, but"—she had no time to finish her sentence, when Rosie who was Alice's friend interrupted and said,

"I've got a pair of skates, books and lots of other things from him." Together the children played, till it was time for Alice to go home. She left them and taking her doll with her ran home. When she arrived there, her mother was already seated by the table having her tiffin.

"Why Alice," said her mother, "you are late for tiffin today. What happened?"

"I was just too happy with my doll and forgot about my tiffin," replied Alice.

"Very well, wash your hands and come to tiffin." After washing her hands, and putting her doll away, she sat by her mother at the table. There was very little food on the table, a few slices of bread, a small jug containing some milk, and three eggs. This seems poor for a Xmas tiffin, but they were poor and could not afford more.

Alice was back in her room after tiffin with her doll in a little corner by the fire. She spoke to her doll as she would to a sister while she was playing.

Evening came on and Alice was still by the fire reading to her doll. Soon there was a loud knock at the door, and a tall man stepped in. He was Alice's uncle, who came to fetch her to go with him to his wife, who was a kind woman and loved children. She was giving a Xmas dinner, and wanted all her nieces and nephews to attend the party.

Alice's mother quickly changed her into her best dress, though not a new one; and went with her uncle in a taxi car to her rich aunt's house. When she arrived there, she was greatly welcomed by the guests. Her aunt took her up and changed her shabby dress into a beautiful one she had never seen before.

They were soon all in the parlor dancing and singing happily, and as you will see her dream came true in the end.

The Lighthouse Lad

BY HELEN McLACHLIN
(age 11 years)

In a lonely lighthouse on China's coast lived a man. He had a wife and a little boy but he would not let them go to this lonely island to live but once in three years he went to spend a few weeks with them. The little boy always looked forward to these visits and as he grew older he longed to go with his father to this home surrounded by water.

One day his mother took sick and before the father reached her she died. The little boy was left all alone until his father came. At first the father wanted to send the little boy to school for he was nine years old but the brave, little lad wanted to go to live in the house away out on the rocks. And as the father's heart was very sad and lonely he at last gave in and said he would take the little lad with him. So they sold all the things in the home except the most precious, and then they bought some school books, some games and toys.

They set sail on a small coast steamer and found two little girls with their parents returning to China. The little girls played with the little boy and grew very fond of him. They were much interested in the lad who was going out to live in a lighthouse with his father for they knew he wouldn't have any playmates.

After three days the little boy and his father left the boat. They landed their things on a small fisher boat and waved "good-bye" to the two little girls as they stood by the rail on the steamer. They stood and watched the little boat until it was only a small lonely speck in the distance.

They could not forget the cheerful little fellow with his sweet smile and often thought of him. They had a lovely home and a big garden in which to play and many playmates. Their father had a lovely treehouse built for them and they used to climb up into this and play. It was a lighthouse away out in a lonely sea.

In the meantime the little boy found his new life very interesting. He loved the roar of the waves as they broke on the rocks. The sea gulls became so tame they would eat out of his hand. Then he studied and helped his father. They had a little garden where they could watch things grow. And an old gray cat played around, while Sheep, the terrier, did all sorts of tricks. It was a tired, happy little boy who went to bed each night. He grew strong and sturdy and made his father very happy. He remembered the two little girls and often used to sit out on the rocks and wonder where they were and what they were doing.

It was the last of September when they went to the lighthouse. Those autumn months were lovely and he liked the outdoor life. But one day he remembered the December came Christmas. His little heart sank as he remembered the thoughtful things his dear mother used to do for him and how Santa would fill his stockings with good things. How could Santa get out to his lonely home? And what could they do to keep Christmas? The thought was in the father's heart and it filled his heart with sadness. But

Santa has such a curious way of finding all good little boys and girls.

One day Kathrine and Betty were playing in their room. It was a lovely room all pink and white and full of toys and pretty things. Betty had been telling Kathrine what she wanted for Christmas when all of a sudden she remembered that the little boy with the big brown eyes out in the lonely lighthouse. "Oh, Kathrine what will the little boy at the lighthouse do for Christmas?" And her eyes were filled with tears and she threw her list of Christmas things on the floor and jumped up. "I know what I want for Christmas. I want to make Santa come to the little boy at the lighthouse."

That night when father came home, Betty climbed up into his lap and told him what she wanted to do. He was very glad and said he would find out the next day if it would be possible to get a small boat to take some things to the lighthouse. It would be a long trip for it was thirty miles to the mouth of the river and then fifteen miles out from the coast but Betty's father found an old Chinese boat man who said he would go.

So the girls spent busy days getting a big box packed and ready. They filled it full of books and toys. Mother made a small Christmas pudding, a fruit cake and a big box of candy. Father sent some books and some warm clothes and some boxes of cigars. Then when it was all full they carefully nailed it, shut and covered it with Christmas tags. They even sent some holly berries and a small Christmas tree. In a covered basket they sent a turkey. What happy girls these were! They had forgotten all about their own Christmas.

As Christmas drew near the little boy tried to be cheerful but somehow he dreaded to have the day come. He missed his mother and knew his father missed her too. He spent many hours out on the rocks trying to think of some way to make the day a happy one, but it was all so bleak and bare he just couldn't think of any way.

In the lighthouse living with these two was a faithful old Chinese cook. He loved the little boy dearly and often wondered what made him so sad. He made ginger bread cookie-men for him but somehow the little lad did not seem to care for them like he used to. Then the old cook remembered that it was almost Christmas, for he had lived many years in a home with several children, where they used to have very happy times and jolly Christmas parties. He wondered what he could do for he felt sure the little boy was thinking of Christmas.

But the day before Christmas came and he was still trying to find a way to cheer the little lad. Looking out over the ocean he saw a boat coming near and he recognized an old friend of his. He hurried down to the landing and found the boat contained the wonderful box and the other good things planned by the little girls. He hurried it into the kitchen and hid it and invited the boat man to stay with him and help him. Late that evening after the little lad had gone to bed and cried himself to sleep for he was so very lonely, the old cook called the lad's father down and showed to him the box. How happy it made them all to know they could make the boy's Christmas a real one. So they worked most all night and the next morning when the little boy came down he jumped and cried with joy. There stood the little Christmas tree. Old cook had strung it up with pop-corn and ginger-bread men and around it was the presents. The little boy ran to his father and put his arms around his neck and said, "Daddy Dear, Santa did find us."

The two little girls had their happiest Christmas for they knew they had brought gladness to the little lighthouse lad.

The Doll's Story

BY ELSIE MARCO (AGE 10)

It was Christmas eve. Eva Rattcliffe sat before the fire in the nursery, thinking about Christmas.

"Oh," she said to her doll, Dorothy, "I wish you could speak and tell me a story."

Her doll stared in front of her, then suddenly to Eva's surprise she began to speak.

"I can speak and I'll tell you a story."

"When I was first made, I lived in China. On Christmas eve I was given to a little girl for a Christmas present. She loved me very much and I loved her too because she was always kind to me."

"A year after I was given to her, her mother told her that there were thousands of poor Chinese children who had never seen a doll in their lives."

"Would Ruth (that was her name) give her precious doll to make a little Chinese girl happy?"

"The tears stood in Ruth's eyes. She loved me so dearly, but at last she consented."

"Christmas morning we set out to visit Chinatown."

"We visited many wretched hovels where we saw Chinese children shivering, starving, and most of them crying bitterly, we gave them money and clothes."

"At last we came to one hut more wretched than the rest. Here lived a little Chinese girl called Oh-Sing, who was an orphan. She had three brothers and two sisters."

"Ruth ran to her, and placed me and some money in her arms. A smile of joy broke over Oh-Sing's face and she started chattering in Chinese thanking the little kind white lady for the doll and money."

"Ruth went away very sad because she did not have me any more. The next day the little Chinese girl was found dead, and I was given to another little English girl at an orphan asylum. Then I was sold and sent here and now I belong to you."

The doll finished speaking and Eva looked up with a start. She looked at Dorothy, but the doll sat with an immovable face staring straight in front of her. Then she knew that it was a dream.

She told her mother about it and she said it would be very nice to make a Christmas party for the little Chinese children the next year.

One year passed and Christmas came again. Eva and her mother gave a very large party for the poor Chinese orphans. Each little child had besides a lovely tea a useful present. They also played many games and had a very good time.

Eva and her mother very often visited the poor orphans and taught some of them to speak English so that they could talk and understand each other.

At last Eva gave away her doll, Dorothy, for her mother bought her a much larger and lovelier doll. Still Eva felt very sorry to part with her dream doll.

In time Eva's mother collected enough money to build a very large orphan asylum for the poor Chinese orphans and also got good, kind teachers to teach and take care of them.

In several years most of them grew up to be good and noble men and women.

Plot To Kill Takahashi Ends In Youth's Arrest

Tokio, Dec. 11.—What is believed to have been a plot to assassinate Premier Korekiyo Takahashi is reported in the Japanese press of the last few days. The papers report the arrest of Shinjiro Kotate, 20 years old, an employee of a sake brewery in Nishinomiya, Hyogo Ken. Police who searched his parents' home in Sasayama, following the receipt of a threatening letter which is believed to have come from Kotate, found in his possession a dirk about six inches long.

The letter which caused the police to begin the case which ended in Kotate's arrest is said to have been received at the Premier's official residence some weeks ago. It read as follows: "Viscount Korekiyo Takahashi: If you take similar action to that of Takahashi Hara, we, who are colleagues of (blank), shall communicate with our members throughout the country and shall at once (blank) you." The words to fill in the spaces left blank are in cipher in the reports of the story carried in the Japanese press.

FIRST SUSPICIONS AROUSED

Shinjiro Kotate, 20 years old, an employee of a sake brewery in Nishinomiya, conducted by Heizaemon Benino, where the "Fuki" brand of sake is produced, has often been under suspicion. Late in the year he appeared in a good foreign style suit, which apparently is a luxury for an employee of a sake brewery. It was learnt by the police that Kotate had joined the "Republican Party," a socialist organization of Sasayama, Tamba province. After various hand-writings by Kotate were compared, the police authorities of Hyogo Ken were satisfied with the identity of the sender of the blackmailing letter. So Kotate was arrested in Sasayama, in his parents' house.

Shinjiro Kotate graduated from a primary high school of Sasayama. He has been a gloomy appearing man, saying strange things and is said to have caused his parents and relatives much trouble, according to the Asahi.
